

Munson & McNamara

123 and 125 Main St.

PARASOLS AT HALF PRICE.

IT IS POSITIVELY SO!

We will during this week offer some of the greatest bargains ever put upon our counters. Values that cannot be approached outside our house.

SATEENS.

One lot of Freres Koechlin, and other French sateens, in fine assortment and confined styles will be offered Monday, and closed at 21 1-2c. This is no odd lot of stuff but 37 pieces just received.

The Styles are NEW and ELEGANT.

SATEENS, AGAIN.

30 pieces of fine American sateens, good, that have sold freely at 15c. We will put the lot on the counter tomorrow and close them at 8 3-4 Cents. 8 3-4 Cents. 8 3-4 Cents.

CHALLIS, The Popular Summer Dress Goods.

We have still an elegant line of this popular warm weather dress goods. Nothing that wears better; it does not retain the dust, and it always looks stylish and is not expensive. Come early for handsome styles.

$1.00 and $1.25 towels this week for 75 cents.
$1.25 and $1.40 damasks this week for $1.00.
35 cent dress flannel this week for 22 cents.

Special Bargains in Silks This Week

Munson & McNamara

BIG - COST - SALE!

All Our

Summer Shoes and Slippers

AT

ACTUAL COST

UNTIL : AUGUST : 1st.

WE MUST HAVE ROOM FOR FALL GOODS.

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED.

LOCKE & FINDEISS,
Wichita Shoe Parlor, cor. Main & First St.

INSURANCE.

W. L. W. Miller & Co.,

ROOM 5, FECHHEIMER BLOCK.

RESIDENT AGENTS FOR:
New York Bowery Fire Insurance Co.,
Phoenix Insurance Co.,
Merchants Insurance Co.,
London and Lancashire Insurance Co.,
Fire Insurance Association,
Capital Insurance Co.,
Fidelity Insurance Co.,
Lombard Fire Insurance Co.,
New York
New York
Newark, N. J.
England
Topeka
Manchester, N. H.
Milwaukee, Wis.
Policies issued against loss by Fire, Lightning, Tornadoes and Wind Storms. Dwelling and farm property insured for term of years. Losses adjusted and paid from their office.

FARM LOANS

MADE AT ONCE

—AT—

LOWEST RATES.

BUNNELL & ENO

INVESTMENT CO.

Corner Room, Sedgwick Block.

R. L. BUNNELL, JR., Pres. L. D. ENO, Cashier.
J. P. ALLEN, V. Pres. W. E. LIVINGSTON, Asst. Cas.

State National Bank

OF WICHITA, KAN.

CAPITAL, - - - $100,000

SURPLUS, - - - $50,000

DIRECTORS:

J. H. G. GARY, Pres. J. H. G. GARY, Jr., V. Pres. H. G. GARY, Jr., Cashier.
J. P. ALLEN, V. Pres. W. E. LIVINGSTON, Asst. Cas.

THE WICHITA SCHOOL

FOR BOYS

Will re-open on the first Monday in September in a new and well-appointed school room on the N. E. corner of Oak st. and Lawrence ave. Correspondence is invited from all who are interested in

—PRIVATE SCHOOLS—
For the training and education of boys by
ARTHUR LEFEVRE,
31-1m. 1919 N. Water street

Determined to Force Trade.

T. L. FOX & SON make such prices that you cannot afford to pass by.

Every item advertised in these columns Sunday will be continued today.

Prices are what we depend on to keep up trade this season of the year and our prices are doing it for us.

We sell that wonderful India linen for 13 1-2c. The American sateens 7 1-2c. French sateens 9c. Batistes 8 1-2c. 38-inch dress suitings 19c. Cream dress flannels, double fold, 53c. Lisle thread hose 33c. Ingrain full regular hose 19c. Silk lisle vests 50c; etc., etc.

We furnish goods the best shirt for 60c in the market. A $1.50 plated bosom shirt for 99c. A $3.00 flannel shirt for $2.45.

.001 other bargains for men and women.

Fox and Son

That New Store, 150 N. Main

CONFUSED FUSIONISTS.

OSTKOS, Wis., July 24.—The state convention of the Union Labor party met in this city today. President Schilling of Milwaukee, was chosen temporary chairman, and Mr. Smith, of Lincoln, temporary secretary. This afternoon a committee on permanent organization and resolutions was appointed. Then followed a long and hot debate between the factions, favoring fusion with the Democrats and those favoring straight nomination. The fusionists wanted the convention to adjourn and leave the matter of a nomination in the hands of a committee.

MISTOOK POISON FOR WINE.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 24.—Charles Soons and William Berry of this city yesterday went to the cellar of a friend to get a glass of wine and found two kegs, one containing wine and arsenic for fly poison and the other pure wine. They by mistake partook freely of the poisoned wine and Soons died within an hour. Berry is still alive, with small chance of recovery.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE BY STORM.

SANDUSKY, O., July 24.—A severe storm struck this place about 8 o'clock this afternoon. The wind blew a gale, and rain and hail fell in torrents. Trees were uprooted and corn and other crops damaged, while the damage in Huron county is estimated at $100,000.

NO HALF WAY BUSINESS.

REDFORD, Cal., July 24.—At Morley's station, twenty miles from here, James Mason, a veteran stage driver, committed suicide in a horrible manner. He bought a fifty-pound box of gun powder, set on it and touched the explosive with a match. The explosion killed him and blew the body in a basket.

NEWS OF THE STATE.

FARMERS FEELING JUBILANT OVER RAIN AND CROPS.

A Salvation Army Colonel Run Out of Great Bend for Un-Christian Conduct.

A Five-Year-Old at Parsons Accidentally Kills Himself With a Revolver—Kearney County Still Seatless.

The Coroner Returns a Sealed Verdict of the Garnett Inquest—Glorious Republican Ratification Meetings.

KANSAS NEWS.

SCOTT COUNTY CROPS.

Special Dispatch to the Daily Eagle.

SCOTT CITY, July 24.—Scott county is having another fine rain, making our crop sure. Farmers are reporting the crops in every part of the county. Some of our farmers will plant 100 acres in wheat this fall and all of our farmers will plant an average crop. While some that never have planted are preparing to put in good big crops. There will also be a large acreage of rye planted. Aside from the general rains we have been having local showers reported from different parts of the county. These rains are also reported from adjoining counties. Flax, potatoes, corn, broom corn and other crops not yet harvested promise a full crop. Scott City assures the farmers a good market for all grain raised in her county, having two great trunk lines of railroad shipping her products gives her advantages of better markets.

COLUMBIA NEWS.

Special Dispatch to the Daily Eagle.

COLUMBIA, July 24.—Another rain yesterday. It means ten bushels more corn to the acre. C. F. Hyde has a field of corn which will make seventy-five bushels to the acre.

C. H. Miller sends a bunch of German millet to the Wichita exhibit for the Cincinnati exposition which measures on an average, six feet and two and one-half inches.

The apple crop is immense in this county.

The Wichita and Colwich brick company have sold 1,500,000 brick already this season, and are manufacturing 35,000 a day to complete further orders. They employ forty men.

Seventeen foot corn is on exhibition at the Courier office.

SALVATION ARMY SCANDAL.

The Colonel of the Great Bend Brigade Run Out of Town.

GREAT BEND, July 23.—One of the highest commanders of the Salvation Army has been in this city for a few days, held meetings in the Methodist and Congregational churches, and succeeded in impressing this community that he was a noble man. Before he left he demanded of the two lady officers who have had charge of the army the money that they had collected. They complied with the request, but immediately resigned their positions with the army, giving as their reason that they had once before been served in that manner and left penniless in a strange town. The commander then stated that he had intended to discharge them anyway, and accused them of grave misdeeds. This accusation aroused public sentiment among those who were interested in the army, and they investigated the case. At last, after a meeting the ladies appeared on the platform and stated their views of the matter, and the colonel of the army, to refute their story, charged the girls with visiting a house of questionable repute in Manhattan. This accusation excited the outsiders very much and they called upon the girls to state the facts. They produced several written recommendations from Manhattan as to their character, and also stated that the highest officers of the army had made improper proposals to them, and that was one reason why they left the army. The public then became aroused, and several men made attacks on the male members of the army and threatened to kill them. The police were called and to avoid it necessary to draw their revolvers to keep the crowd from the salvationists. The colonel and other male members had to leave town, at midnight, with their baggage. The army then became driven out by the excited people. Numerous threats are made against the lives of the commander and colonel if they ever appear in town again.

A REPUBLICAN RATIFICATION.

PARSONS, July 24.—The Republicans of Labette county held an immense rally at Mound Valley today. The little city was beautifully decorated with flags and banners and delegations were present from Coffeyville, Cherryville, Oswego, Montana, Parsons, Independence and every part of the county. After the parade the vast crowd assembled in a grove and was addressed by Col. Halliwell, of Wichita. His speech, of nearly three hours duration, was masterly and elicited great applause.

This evening the crowd assembled on the square in the city and addresses were made by Col. W. H. Crumbray, and Hon. S. Kirkpatrick, of Fredonia. Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that one of the main points of difference between the Republican and Democratic parties was that the former never provided the statute of limitations on its record, while the latter did. He showed up many of the lunacies of the United Labor platform, and called attention to the fact that fusion was the main issue before the people—that of free trade.

Both speeches were delivered from the door of a log cabin, which had been erected in the square. The meeting closed with three cheers and a tiger for the Republican ticket and protection for American industry.

REPUBLICAN VETERANS ORGANIZE.

TOPEKA, July 24.—A Harmonious Morton club was organized here tonight composed of the veterans of many political campaigns, who happen to reside this year in Topeka. William Chambers, who was chosen president of the club, is 97 years old, and boasts that he voted for Adams, Clay and Harrison, and will vote again for Harrison and Grant. He is a native of the state of New York, and has been a member of the club for many years. The club is composed of about twenty members, the youngest being 70 years old. They intend to participate in the campaign of 1888 to the fullest extent warranted by their age.

A FATAL PLAYTHING.

PARSONS, July 24.—The five-year-old son of Thomas Todd, living west of this place, was killed last night by a runaway horse. The child was sitting on a horse, and the horse was running at a gallop. The child was killed instantly. The horse was owned by the Todd family.

gone to visit a sick neighbor a mile distant, leaving the little boy in charge of his sister, about 12 years of age. She went to the spring near by for a pail of water, leaving her brother playing on the floor, and on returning a few moments later she found him lying on the floor with his clothes on. She rushed to the water over him, and on picking him up found him dead with a bullet hole through his heart. A revolver, with one empty chamber, lying by his side, and the story of the boy had taken his father's revolver from a drawer and accidentally shot himself.

NO COUNTY SEAT CHOSEN.

GARDEN CITY, July 24.—Today the vote cast last Saturday in Kearney county for the permanent county seat was counted, and showed no choice, the vote being: Omaha, 233; Hartfield, 218; Lakin, 436. Fraud entered very largely into the contest, and having caused the election to be fraudulent. The entire people's ticket was elected by handsome majorities.

A SEALED VERDICT.

GARRETT, July 24.—The body of A. B. Taylor, who was shot by a woman Saturday evening, was turned over to his sister, Mrs. Lewis, who came on from Booneville last evening, by the coroner, and she returned home with it today. Every possible attention was paid to the body by the resident traveling men. The preliminary trial of Edith Todd, who did the shooting, will take place on 25th. The coroner's jury returned a sealed verdict.

STATE CHARTERS.

TOPEKA, July 24.—The Goodwill Citizens' club, a social organization of Goodwill citizens, held a meeting here today. The club is composed of J. H. Williams, vice-president; P. H. Coons, librarian; Joseph Rode, secretary; Anton Miller, treasurer; capital stock, $2,000; local number, 103. The Sedgwick Social Club, of Wichita; Frank Germain, Byron Nesinger, W. W. Mayfield, Martin Fox, directors; local number, 104. The East End association, of Wichita; a social club; directors, J. A. Gleason, Arthur Scholtz, John Scholtz, J. M. Lovren, William Elliott; local number, 105. The National Confraternity Association, of Hutchinson; to hold exhibitions of speed of dogs and harness racing, capital stock, $10,000; directors, John R. Price, of Topeka; M. E. Allison, W. L. Woodworth, J. A. Myers, Emerson Carey.

The Wichita Cannel Coal company, with offices in Wichita and Cooper county, Mo.; capital stock, $200,000; directors: J. H. Richards, W. M. Levy, L. C. Jackson, G. W. L. Lauer, A. J. Longdorf, H. Imboden, J. L. Jacoby, J. M. Humphrey, D. H. Allen.

NO KNOWN OWNERS FOUND.

LANCASTER, July 24.—Nobody will acknowledge the ownership of the Tribune, which was sold one day last week for $5,500, which was paid by James Crow. The paper runs regularly and is edited by some unknown quantity, though the former owner's name will not be found in the paper. No one can understand why the secrecy is maintained.

SALT AT STERLING.

STERLING, July 24.—Struck salt here this afternoon at depth of 100 feet.

CUTE BIT CAUGHT.

An Adventurous Reporter's Unsuccessful Attempt to Report the Meeting of the St. Joe Brotherhood.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 24.—The joint meeting of the locomotive engineers, firemen, switchmen and brakemen to consider the Burlington strike convened at Toole's opera house this morning at 9:30 o'clock. "False as a bullet," which used to be a proverb, was perfectly applicable to that paper, for there was not one word of truth in that allegation. Daniel Doherty had never enjoyed a pension, the record in the pension office showing that his claim for pension had been disallowed in the pension office. He should advise the particular "little barometer" of the pension claimant's office of vice, who furnished information to the president to be a little more prudent in the statement of this woman's frequent arrest by the police, he admitted that under the pressure of physical and mental suffering she had been arrested five times for verbal offenses up to 1872, but since then she had conducted herself in a reputable manner (as had been certified to by admiral Porter and Mr. George Bancroft), and the fact had been placed to her charge the arrest of another woman named Doherty, there being no proof whatever that they were one and the same person. This showed the extraordinary pains to which the emissaries of the pension bureau had gone to enable the president to form a veto out of which political capital might be made.

Mr. Cockrell asked Mr. Davis whether the pension to Mrs. Doherty was given because of her injuries at the arsenal explosion.

Mr. Davis presumed that that had a certain effect in determining the reports of the bill.

Mr. Cockrell, dared the committee on pension, to make a report recommending the passage of the bill on the ground that Mary Ann Doherty had been an employee of the government in the employment of the government her name was on the list of employees, and she had signed her name for the wages she received. He challenged the committee on pension to produce the evidence, and declared that they could not, that the woman had never been employed in the arsenal and had never been blown up, and that the whole of the claim was a fraudulent and false one. He also challenged proof that George Bancroft, whose name was printed to the woman's petition, was George Bancroft, the historian, patriot and philanthropist, or that any son of this woman had ever been killed at the Washington navy yard.

The matter was allowed to pass without action, and Mr. Sherman, from the committee on finance, reported an amendment to the sundry civil bill to incorporate in it a provision to refund the direct tax. (This is the same measure which caused the house deadlock.) Referred to the committee on appropriations.

The most important amendment reported was to add to the item for the construction of three steel cruisers, two of them of about 3,000 tons at a cost not exceeding $100,000 each, exclusive of armament, and one of about 5,000 tons at a cost not more than $150,000. The following also, three gunboats or cruisers, each of which shall exceed 1700 tons in displacement, not $500,000 in cost, including armament, and a provision that may be increased, speed of not less than 16 knots, the cost of armament, steel vessels to be built either wholly of steel or with steel frames, to strike out of the item the words "and one armed cruiser of about 7,500 tons. Displacement, not to exceed $1,500,000, and also to strike out of the provision that at least one of the vessels shall be built in a United States navy yard and that others may be built at foreign navy yards if the secretary can make reasonable contracts for their construction.

Mr. Gray moved to amend the amendment by striking out the words "1,700 tons" and inserting the words "3,000 tons" and increasing the cost from $500,000 to $700,000 each.

Mr. Stewart moved to amend the clause proposed to be struck out to provide for the armed vessels of 1,500 each at a cost of $500,000. Rejected. Yeas 9; nays 41. The affirmative vote being those of Senators Butler, Cameron, Evans, Gibson, Hampton, Mitchell, Platt, Stewart and Stockbridge.

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

MR. COCKRELL WANTS THE VETO MESSAGES PRINTED.

Mr. Davis Shows the Wrong of the Veto of the Doherty Pension Bill.

The House Considers the Oklahoma Bill in Committee of the Whole, But Reaches No Decision.

The Sioux Indians, by a Unanimous Rising Vote, Decide to Oppose the Opening of the Reservation to White Settlement.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Bills for holding terms of United States courts in the state of Nebraska; in Salina, Kan.; Owensboro, Ky.; Newark, N. J.; and Quincy, Ill.; and to sub-divide the western judicial district of Louisiana were reported from the judiciary committee and passed.

The resolution to print 5,000 additional copies of the report of the senate committee on pensions, on the subject of vetoed pension bills, was taken up, the question being on Mr. Cockrell's amendment to print 100,000 copies of presidential vetoes in the last and present congress. Mr. Cockrell explained the object which he had in suggesting the printing of the veto messages in the Doherty case. The senator from Massachusetts, (Mr. Davis) had suggested a resolution to have all the pension vetoes printed and he (Mr. Cockrell) had offered it as an amendment, but to his horror and astonishment the senator from Massachusetts had sprung into a fearful rage about it, and the distinguished senator from Connecticut, (Mr. Hawley) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty, who had suffered seriously from an explosion at the Washington arsenal. As to the pension which she had drawn (for three months) the senator from Massachusetts explained that it had been given on the report of what had turned out to be a fabrication of his death. The president had seen the report and had given his assent to it, and he (Mr. Davis) had been moved almost to tears on the Doherty case and the veto messages were excellent reading and the people were very anxious to read them.

Mr. Davis (chairman of the pension committee), explained and justified the action of that committee in reporting a bill to pension Mrs. Doherty,